NSW baker has something to sing about

Barry Mead The Singing Baker

The Country Collection CD

Born in the seaside town of Bermagui on the south coast of NSW, Barry Mead began his baking career there in 1969.

Transferring to Narooma in 1971 he met Carol, the girl working at the bakery shop, and they have been married for 34 years.

"While baking and listening to country music I started to sing a few songs and later joined the local country music club and sang a few numbers at their local get-togethers," says Barry.

Barry also gives special thanks to his friend Nev Molloy for his guidance and professionalism while recording The Country Collection CD.

Molloy met Barry Mead the singing baker and his wife Carol twenty odd years ago while touring with the Brian Letton show, as lead guitarist.

"We started that tour in Sydney and shows along the east coast of NSW and Victoria. We showed at Narooma where Barry and Carol came to our show and introduced themselves," says Molloy.

"Barry is also a diver and goes down to the murky deep with a spear gun.

As with most bakers I've met, Barry's real bloody wag; loves a joke; loves his family and friends and bakers all seem to be able to sing a bit."

Barry says he hopes bakers and friends will enjoy his CD.

"If not, at least I have had a go and I have decided to leave my kids and grand kids with a permanent reminder of their dad, Poppy Bazz and so I have recorded this album before I get too old," says Barry.

Profits from The Country Collection CD will go to Cancer Care.

Audio samples from Barry's CD can be heard on the LE TV web page @ www.leadedgejournal.com.au
